Once there was a time when girls wore dresses—
now they've switched to
"farmer johns."
When the guys wore their hair at decent lengths—now they wear them in shags.
And there was a time you could notice the teachers by their every day apparel of dresses and ties —
now they too wear
pantsuits and pull-over shirts.

Then the teachers decided it was time to do something to better the schools. Eight months of negotiations had led no where. So the Indianapolis teachers took the only action they could — strike. That meant picketing and for some jail as striking teachers were arrested for going against a court order. For students it meant a week's vacation.

Doing what we do best—resting!

The many faces of David Boles!

Mrs. Linda Butts, Mr. Jett and members of the P.T.A. take time out to visit Christmas on the Circle.

John Rogers, photography editor, seems to be gun-ho about his job!

Our staff—always serious!

ART DEPARTMENT

Bill Johnson's sculpture in its rough stage.

Mrs. Hood assists one of her students.

Danny Lovelace works to perfect his sculpture.

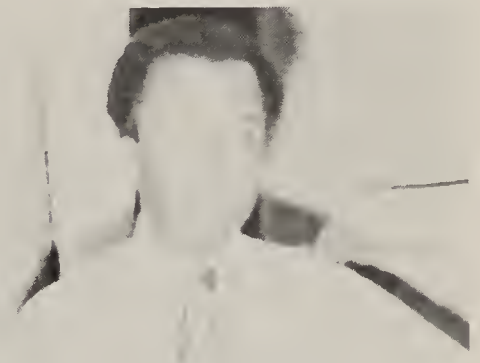
Mr. Weisling poses in front of some student work.

Wood's Art Department has much to offer the student in art. There is jewelry, ceramics, sculpture and photography offered along with the regular art classes. Two Seniors were awarded Saturday scholarships to John Herron Art School — Steve Mundy and Paul Smith.

BUSINESS EDUCATION

COE girls were honored by a proclamation for Youth in Business.

Developing skills, gaining new abilities, and applying lessons already learned are the goals of every business minded pupil. If only poor Woodstock could type as fast as some of our Woodchucks, he too would someday have a lasting career in the business world.



Mr. Z. Robertson lectures his class on the fundamentals of typing speed and accuracy.

COE coordinator and business teacher, Miss Young, studies her busy schedule.

Typing students sometimes get a little dizzy at their many problems.

ENGLISH DEPARTMENT

Mrs. Butts advises a student on a problem.

Mr. Moore explains "the way it is."

Drama students Margie Charles and Roseanna Loy go through the work and fun of learning a new play.

These serious seniors make up a portion of Mrs. Scofield's English 7 class.

X - Y - Z Now I've said my . . . . .

These students have come a long way since those days of childhood simplicity. Their world has now become complicated and challenging. Yet learning and broadening those basic English lessons to fields of Journalism, Drama, and deeper English knowledge have provided each student with treasures for a lifetime.

Carol Click and Frank Rogers studying hard!

Pupils listen while Mr. Kult instructs.

FOREIGN LANGUAGE DEPARTMENT

Spanish Club members prepare Nutrition Week display.

Miss Hartley reviews Spanish words with class.

Miss JoAnn Hartley, head of the foreign language department and Spanish instructor, accompanied by Mrs. Neville McCracken in French do their best in teaching students the language of their choice. Many students take a language for the fun of learning another language, while others have plans to attend college.

Mrs. McCracken is the sponsor of French club, while Miss Hartley is the sponsor of Spanish club.

GUIDANCE DEPARTMENT

Mr. Hendricks was kept busy making up freshmen schedules.

The Guidance Department, headed by Mr. Eiler, was organized differently this year. Instead of dividing the students alphabetically, they were divided according to grade level. Mr. Hendricks had the freshmen, Mrs. Willis the sophomores, Mrs. Smith the juniors, and Mr. Wilson was the senior counselor.

They were kept busy not only planning schedules and helping students and testing, but they taught orientation classes. These classes helped the freshmen learn the school and its rules and also helped the students make plans for the future.

There was always a line of students waiting to see their counselor.

HOME ECONOMICS DEPARTMENT

Miss Heitbrink assists a girl in threading a sewing machine.

Two girls are mixing food together to cook and eat.

These girls are putting together a garment in sewing class.

The Home Economics department did several new things this year. A new club was started — the Home Economics Club. These girls had many varied activities such as a food demonstration by Citizens Gas Company.

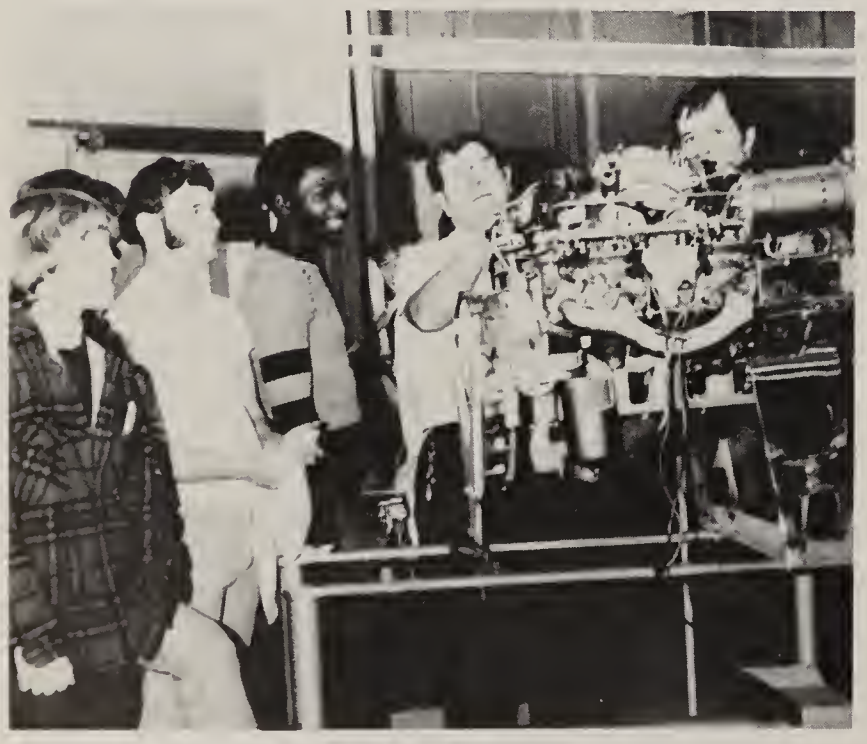
Nutrition Week was a success for the entire school under the direction of the Home Economics department. The main event was an experiment with two white mice — Foodo and Hungo.

VOCATIONAL EDUCATION

Beauty Culture involves much more than just hair.

Wood has many vocational courses to offer the student. These courses prepare the student for a job in the future, and they are aided in finding jobs by their teachers. These students help around the school. Beauty culture students helped with the senior pictures. Commercial Foods students help in the cafeteria.

INDUSTRIAL ARTS DEPARTMENT



There is more to auto mechanics than just pumping gas.

Mr. Haslet demonstrated how to smooth many fenders.

Along with the usual shop classes offered in a high school, at Wood the student in Industrial Arts is given a chance to take Auto Mechanics, Service Station and Auto Body. For the first time this year a course was offered in construction.

JUNIOR HIGH

Junior High boys work out in the new gym.

This year the Junior High gained several new teachers and a new head. Mr. Bob King took over the position of head during the second semester. Other new teachers are Mrs. Judith Carlson, Reading, Mr. Steve Downing, L.A., and Mrs. Doris Duckworth.

Reading is an important part of all Junior High classes.

MATH

Mr. Brundage changes places with the students.

Extra assistance is sometimes needed in math.

The math department is still on the move. This year they moved all the way from 1st floor to 3rd floor. We suppose they definitely wanted to be on top of things. As head of the department Mr. Hochstedler is leading the way very successfully. We at Wood believe that we have some of the best Math teachers around. We hope they continue to teach and the Wood Log staff wishes our Math Department luck in their new location.

MULTI-MEDIA DEPARTMENT

Mrs. Underwood and Mr. Hanley find the time to socialize in the library.

This girl is a student library assistant.

Students find that the library is a quiet place to do homework.

Books, pamphlets, records, pictures, and maps are all vital aspects of the Multi-Media center within our library.

Managed by Mr. Monte Jines, the Multi-Media center is one of the most important aids to every student.

As these pictures prove, the library is always open to studious minded pupils and teachers alike.

Tables are provided for student use.

MUSIC DEPARTMENT

These two boys are learning to play the guitar in music class.

Mrs. Zenor and Vivian Tookes demonstrate dance steps to be used in the mini-production of "Oklahoma".

The Music Department had a wide variety of activities. Their annual Fall Festival was a huge success. It featured the orchestra, the Freshman Choir, and the Choir. The Choir put on a mini-production of "Oklahoma". Again this year the Choir put on a Christmas program on the Circle. The marching band under the new direction of Mr. Samuel marched in several parades and put on an outstanding performance at the Homecoming game.

The cast of "Oklahoma" during one of its many rehearsals.

PHYSICAL EDUCATION DEPARTMENT

Whose got the ball?

Exercising is an important part of physical education.

This year was the girls year to start to shine in the Physical Education Department. For the first time there was city-wide competition between girls in volleyball and basketball. Our girls' volleyball team went to the semi-finals in the sectionals. Students also participated in a wide variety of sports in physical education classes, while many students learned about themselves in health classes. In ROTC, Joe Gray won an individual award for the drill team, while the team itself walked away with many honors.

Peggy Vaughn shows how easy it is to vault a horse.

SCIENCE DEPARTMENT

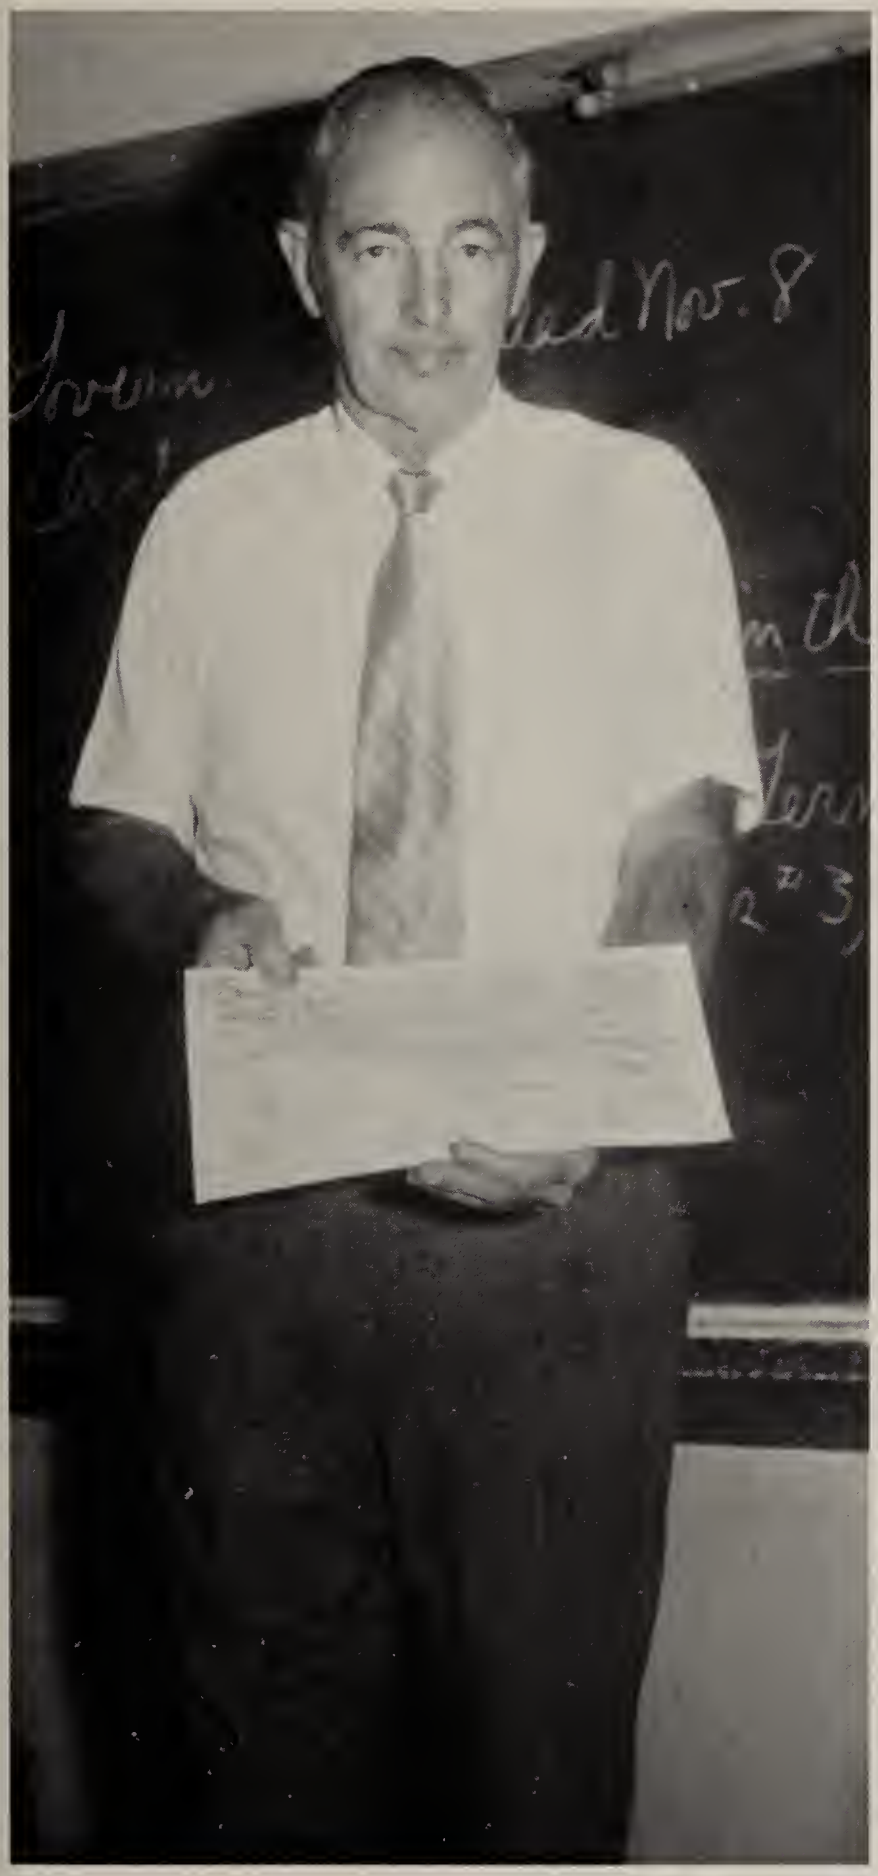
Mr. Schott hands student Frank Dixon his days work.

Students listen in as Mr. Ward tells it like it is.

Students show it and tell it like it is in Science class.

Mr. West was the new department head of the Science Department this year. The Science Department had many other changes this year also. Mr. Swope is the new physics and chemistry teacher, and Mr. Hendricks was given a biology class along with his counseling. Dental Assisting's new head is Mrs. Darlene Gosnell.

SOCIAL STUDIES DEPARTMENT



Mr. Yenowine explains a sample ballot.

The Social Studies department this year was kept busy studying not just history but current events. Since this was a presidential election year, the elections were given emphasis. The government classes were given a chance to vote in a mock election. Contrary to the real election, McGovern and Shriver won at Wood.

Student teacher, Ruth Hanning, prepares a history lesson.

ACTIVITIES

A BEAUTIFUL SPRING EVENING FULFILLS

Two couples take time out to talk during the Prom.

"June Romance" was the theme of the 1972 Junior-Senior prom which was held at the Atkinson Hotel. Music was furnished by the Steve Gaither Band. The decorations followed an oriental theme. Junior class sponsors, Mrs. Garnetta Hood and Mr. Bob Bowman helped to make the evening a success for all who attended.

A beautifully decorated lounge provided a pleasant setting for just resting.

Jerry VanLieu and Sandy Belviy have lasting memories of the 1972 Prom.

THE DREAMS OF "JUNE ROMANCE"

Noreen Sarden and Lonnie Raine pause to look at the decorations.

Mrs. Bowman fixes her husband's boutonniere.

Paul Belviy and Roberta Price discover dancing can be hard on the feet.

HOMECOMING

Homecoming candidates for 1972 were, Freshmen Richard Smoot and Diane Kelley, Sophomores Frank Sloan and Abbey Winston, Juniors Pat Hause and Debbie White. Senior candidates were Virgil Rigney and Sheila Rippy, Angus Harris and Linda Floyd, Kathy Green and Jimmy Via.

Kathy Green is crowned homecoming queen of 1972 by Tom Jett, principal.

Two Wood students find shelter under the "bubble".

Homecoming had one of the best turnout crowds of the football seasons, despite the weather.

Mr. Turner braves the cold evening with a cheerful disposition.

Varsity players warm up with calisthenics before second quarter action begins against Culver Military.

Even though homecoming was wet and cold, many fellow Woodchucks viewed the 1972 coronation of the queen. Three Senior candidates, Linda Floyd, Kathy Green, and Sheila Rippy were selected to represent the Senior class. Each class also voted for a representative to be on the queen's court. Through a majority of votes from Wood's student body, Kathy Green was chosen Homecoming queen for 1972.

The Woodchucks were handed a defeat by Culver Military, 36-6. But, the spirit of the students, teachers, and friends reigned high and mighty that evening.

HONOR DAY

Mr. Jett presided at the Honor Day program.

John Branch received his metals award from Mr. Murphy.

Rodney White and Denisa Wilson seemed pleased with their awards.

A solemn Vickie Parham accepted her award from Mrs. Benefiel.

Our varsity football team ranked high in pride, spirit, and desire. Costly errors during crucial times of the game were the cause of most of the defeats. Stern opposition didn't help the team either. But there were bright moments in the game, as our Chucks provided plenty of excitement.

The leading scorer and rusher for the second straight year was Richard Cannon with 30 points, followed closely by Steve Raine 20 points, and Keith Cosby with 18.

Trophy winners were Richard Cannon, offensive and defensive back, and Charles Wright, offensive and defensive lineman.

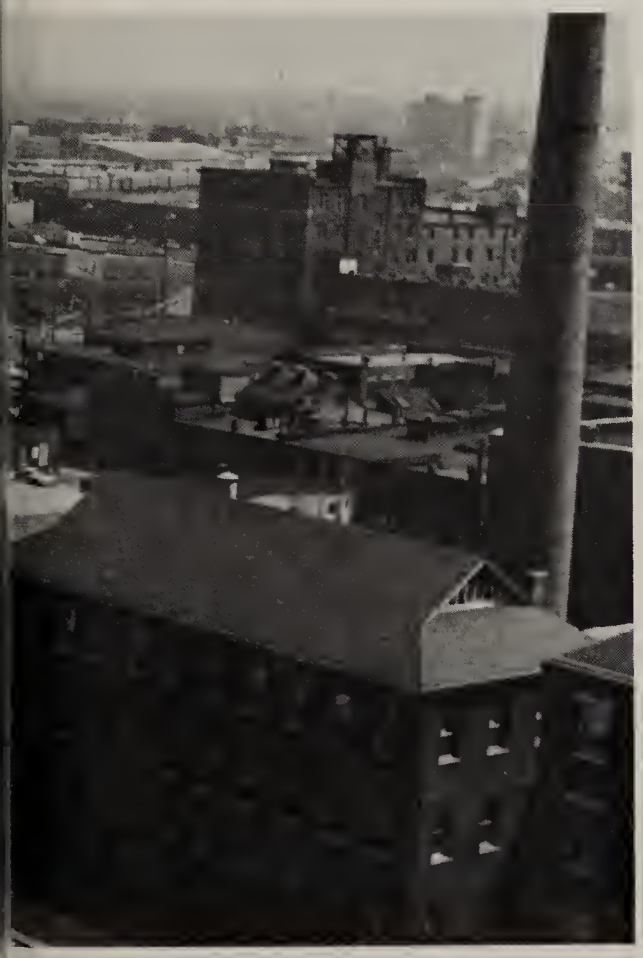
A BRIEF LOOK AT

In 1895, a manual training school was opened in Indianapolis. It was located on a triangular plot of ground only five blocks from the business center of the city. It was named Emmerich Manual Training High School.

Then in 1953 a new school was built one and a half miles from the old school. So the building became an empty problem for officials.

But it wasn't a problem for long, in the fall of 1953 the building was open again. This time it was Harry E. Wood High School. This new school not only offered the usual educational program, but also a program for slow learners and several Vocational courses.

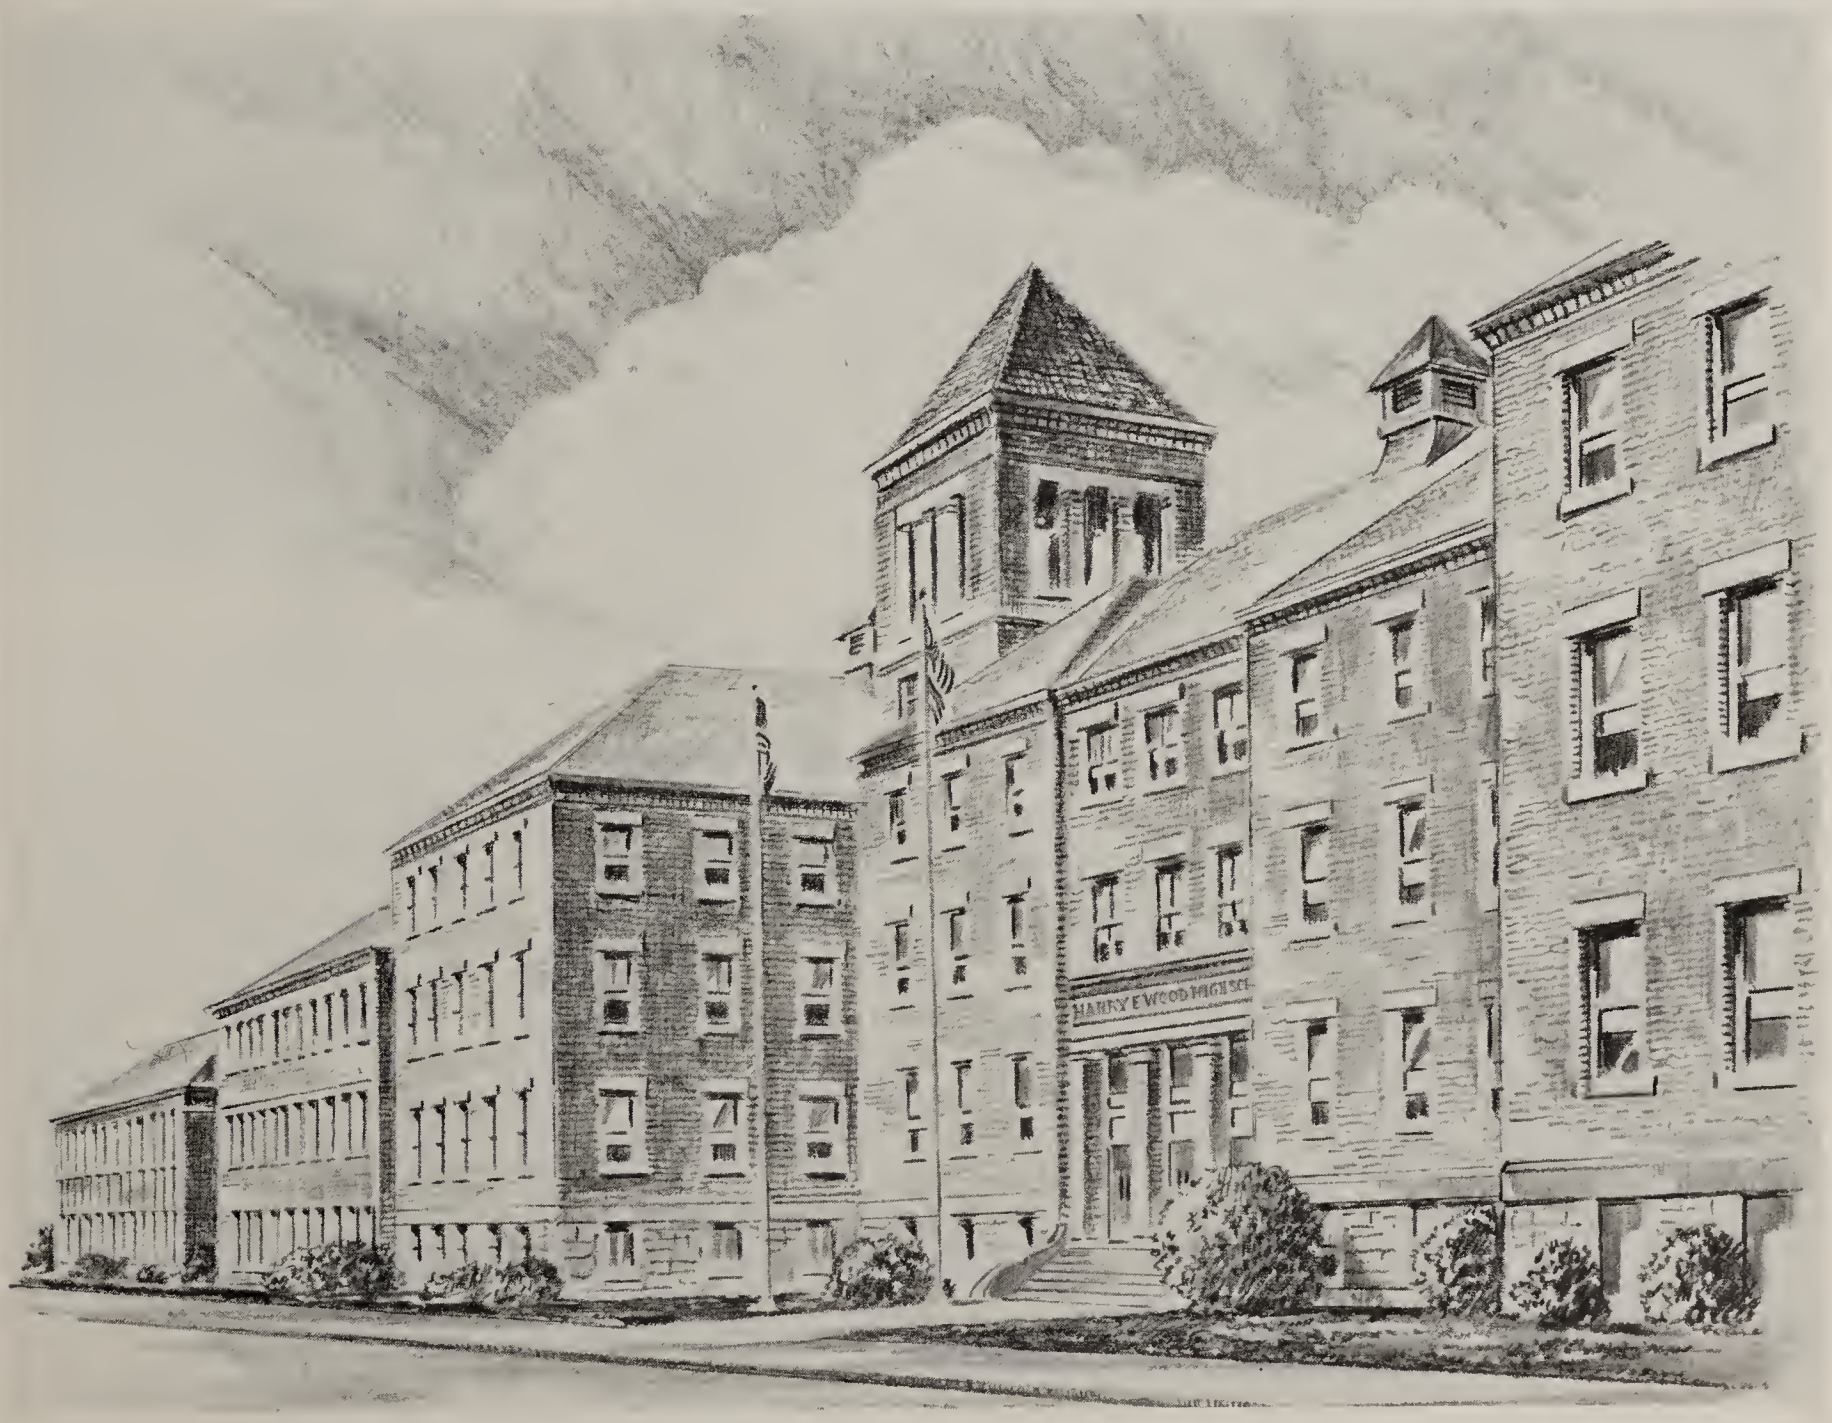
A BRIEF HISTORY



OUR SCHOOL IS

CONTINUALLY CHANGING

In 1966, a new addition was added to Wood. This contained a new gym and several class rooms. This became known as the "E" building. The classrooms were used for the Junior High division.



THREE PRINCIPALS

Harry E. Wood was born at Lexington, Illinois, September 26, 1879. He married Bessie M. Houser of Kane, Pennsylvania July 23, 1907. Mr. Wood's grade school training was received in Indianapolis Public Schools. He later attended the School of Industrial Arts, Philadelphia, Cornell University, Summer Schools and Extension Divisions of Indiana and Purdue Universities.

As one of the pioneers in the developing of instruction in Manual Training in the public schools of the United States, Harry E. Wood made a distinctive contribution to the progress of public education in Indianapolis. Mr. Wood began his teaching service in Emmerich Manual Training High School in 1900 as an instructor of drawing and design. In 1919, he was given the added duty of directing Vocational Education in the Indianapolis Public Schools. In 1933, Mr. Wood was made Director of Practical Arts in addition to Vocational Education and in 1936 he became Director of Fine Arts also. He carried these responsibilities until his retirement in 1950.

Many Senior boys will have the memories of sports.

One of the many activities seniors participated in was Junior Achievement.

Bobbie Morris and Charles Eid will long remember the prom.

Members of the Senior Choir leave the booth after singing Christmas Carols on the Circle.

THOSE WERE THE DAYS MY FRIEND . . .

WE THOUGHT THEY'D NEVER END.

So much is happening today.
Every time I turn around,
there's something else to do,
to worry about
Why must everything be so complicated?

The challenges,
The problems,
The endless lists of goals, of accomplishments,
The pressures,
I hate them all.

Can't I just go my own way?
To do the things I want to do,
To lead the life I want to live?
Why must everyone else's worries worry me too?

Please just give me my own work,
my own play.
That's all I want.
I think . . .

I want to be alone,
I need time to think.

I'm so afraid . . .

I feel trapped,
I can sense the pressures building up around me.
Take care of this,
Take care of that.
I just can't do it.
What can I do about a whole world of problems?

I tried once,
I really did.
I felt so insignificant,
So many other people,
So many words,
words I can't even pronounce much less understand.

I just wanted to be myself.
I wanted my own activities, my own friends.

It didn't work though.
I felt lonely.
I lost my humanity,
I lost my sense of affiliation.

Now, nothing is left.
I can only hide behind the "me" that I have built.
I cannot touch my friends,
they cannot touch me.

I am so lonely . . .

Food

It's been awhile but,
I finally feel happy again.
It's been a struggle to get this way,
I'm glad I put forth the effort.

Earlier, I found that I simply could not talk to my friends.
By putting myself away from everyone,
Off in my own little corner of the world,
I lost touch.
With everyone, with myself.
I thought I knew what I wanted.
Oh well . . . I've been wrong before.

I realize that isolation is never an answer.
People must relate to each other
if they want to be productive to feel fulfilled.

That empty feeling that creeps over me when I am alone used to scare me.
Now that thought is the farthest thing from my mind.
I'm just too busy, too involved, too happy,
to entertain its gloom.

When I am happy, I feel complete.
I feel that I am doing something,
It doesn't even matter how insignificant
it might actually be.

My friends help me a lot,
and I help them

Isn't that the way it's supposed to be?

Dear Reader:

The past year is over — the yearbook's completed;
Our supply of ideas is entirely depleted.
Many stories we have written — many pictures we took,
And the fruits of our efforts lie here in this book.

Though a great deal of credit should go to the staff,
A number of others cut our work load in half.
The ever-near deadlines and the work made us groan;
But, in truth, in our efforts we were not alone.

A "thank you" to photography teacher Linson is due,
Whose help in the book can be seen through and through.
And the pressures of deadlines, which oft made us squirm,
Were relieved by Mr. Robinson of the Inter-Collegiate firm.

Paul Studios should be given their dues,
For the much needed help they gave to us too.
And thanks to our patrons and advertising friends,
Whom without this book would never have been.

Now it is finished; two semesters of toil
Led by Susie Koehler — we won the battle royal.
But the effort was worth it, we had fun because We'll remember last year as the year that was.

Linda Butts takes a break from yearbook activities.

Sincerely yours,
